We try our best to accommodate same day orders. Please keep in mind, because of the short notice, we cannot guarantee the delivery/pick-up time or the product you request will be available. Additional fees may apply.

What happens if there is food left over?

For your safety, food that is heated or cooled and is out over 4 hours, must be discarded. Food held at room temperature must be discarded after 2 hours. We ask that you talk to one of our food professionals first to ensure the food is safe before packing up to go.

Why do I have to meet the minimum order requirements in order to have my meal delivered?

Although we would love to be able to service everyone's needs (no matter how small the order), this is just not logistically possible. It would be very difficult for us to not only staff the amount of persons it would take to make this possible, but it would also be very difficult to make these practices profitable.

The menu states: "15-person minimum applies on all per person packages. For orders fewer than 15 persons, additional charges will apply." How are the additional charges determined?

If you are unable to meet the minimum order requirement, additional charges will be determined as follows: customers will be charged 50% of the per person price for each person under the minimum.

Example: the sunshine package is $10.95 per person. An order is placed for 22 people. The customer would be charged 50% of $10.95 ($5.47) x 3 persons (the number of person below the required amount) for a total of $16.41. $257.31?

There is a meal that I really wanted, but I don't see it on your catering menu. Can I still order it?

Of course!! There are thousands of food offerings that our trained team of culinary experts can prepare for you. We just didn't have the time (or the room) to list them all. Please feel free to contact us or stop in, and we will be happy to sit down and customize any menu specifically for you and your guests.
